RAMBLING AMONG THE STOWS.

By Luke Stow Wunderly of Detroit, Michigan.

Many odd and interesting things have helped in my search for the descendants of the immigrant JOHN STOW of Roxbury, Mass. Even the "Liberty Bell", object of so much interest to all Americans, has helped. The bell cast in England in 1753 on being unloaded was found to be cracked. The recasting was let to Pass and STOW of Philadelphia, and they did a good job. This STOW was Charles STOW, Jr., son of the Charles STOW, who came to colonial America between 1717 and 1721 and in time became door-keeper of the Executive Council in Philadelphia. We never have connected him in any way with JOHN STOW and Elizabeth Bigge of Roxbury, but two of his descendants are among my valued correspondents.

One wrote of an automobile dealer in Rising Sun, Indiana whose sign was seen along the highway. A letter to this HARRY STOW was not answered for many months. Then a news clipping was sent me by the librarian of the Public Library of Vevay, Indiana, saying HARRY STOW had been appointed administrator of his sister's estate. She also sent the name of a STOW in Madison, Indiana, who was a direct descendant of JOHN of Roxbury. Meanwhile HARRY STOW had commandeered an "in-law" and put her to work assembling the Southern Indiana STOWS a legion unto themselves. They settled in 1820 in Switzerland County, and married the Dufours, French Huguenots and wine growers, who introduced the grape and other fruits into the county. For years this settlement with no post office and no bank, was known as "STOWTOWN". One STOW, a real pioneer, when ninety years old wrote a history of his life which has been embodied in the genealogy. Inspired by the Stow efforts the Dufours have started to assemble their own family history. All this because a STOW fixed the Liberty Bell.

Then there was the case of CHESTER STOW a descendant of COMFORT STOW. He died in 1865 in Geneva, Ohio, apparently childless, the estate being administered by the widow. Several months after this had come to my attention, I found, in a Wisconsin County History, a write up of a LEWIS G. STOW, whose parents were given as CHESTER and Cynthia STOW. A letter to the Probate Judge brought the reply that he did not have this family in probate. But he did have some other STOWS, and gave their names and addresses. I wrote one who seemed the most likely and received a complete family in reply, with the names and addresses of all her cousins. They in turn responded most fully, the data including the family of a Civil War veteran who married four times. All this data, embracing almost one book, was secured while in search of an entirely different STOW.

In assembling the Broome County, New York STOWS, a St. Petersburg, Florida, cousin wrote that, after 1870, nothing had been heard of ALBERT STOW, born in 1805 in Windsor, New York. He had left New York State and gone to Ohio, locating in the vicinity of Troy, later going to Nauvoo, Illinois. His business of freight transportation took him to Paducah, Kentucky and, about 1853, to San Antonio, Texas. He was the producer of a well known cough syrup and the father of fifteen children.

I fingered the letter from the Florida cousin with its discouraging news, and did some thinking. Then I wrote a letter to the Mayor of San Antonio, asking for a descendant of ALBERT STOW, explaining my objective. Back came a reply that the Mayor had turned my letter over to a police reporter who would do all possible. The reporter gave me a write up in the "San Antonio Light", and within six hours after it appeared on the streets, a grand daughter had telephoned the newspaper that she would enjoy hearing from her northern cousin. This connection resulted in the addition of almost another book, for one of ALBERT STOW'S fifteen children himself had fourteen children. So large a family, indeed, that Cousin HARRIET could write of a family reunion lasting three days, with a visit to the old burying ground, fifteen miles away, a visit which inspired them all with deepest respect and reverence for their ancestors.

These are but three brief incidents out of the many that have both enlivened and helped me in my long and interesting search for the descendants of JOHN STOW of Roxbury, Massachusetts and the writing of "THE STOW GENEALOGY".

NOTES OF THE SOCIETY

At the April meeting we again enjoyed a talk by one of our own members, the young Curator of European Arts at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Mr. Francis Waring Robinson. Taking for his subject, "Ancestors in History", Mr. Robinson selected four of his ancestors who played their part in four great periods of our national development. In a most interesting manner, and with humor, too, he told the stories of William Letts of New Jersey, who, in a village struggle over a fence, represented our early struggles for the establishment of civil liberties, of William Robinson of Virginia and Indian warfare in the first great western movement, of Charles Copland a lawyer in Richmond, Virginia, who represented the growth of cities and yet wrote an account of frontier life from his cabin in Ohio, called "Sylvan Rest", and last, of his grandfather, Richard S. Waring, of Pennsylvania, who invented the Waring under-ground cable, and stood for the period of development of our natural resources.

Mrs. Harry D. Pritchard of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and Miss Mabel L. Keech of Evanston, Illinois have both been working at Burton recently. Miss Keech is making her "At The Sign Of The Crest" a very interesting feature of "Hobbies" magazine.

Miss Isabella Neff Burnet of Charlottesville, Virginia writes that she is now working on copies of the wills and inventories of the Jefferson family that are recorded in Charlottesville. They are in excellent condition, she says, except that the ink is quite faded in places. They were repaired by the local D.A.R. Chapter.

Mr. and Mrs. U. Grant Morton are leaving soon for what Mrs. Morton calls a "purely Genealogical" trip to California.

Mrs. F. R. Peterson, on her way to the Continental Congress of the D.A.R. in Washington D. C., visited Charleston S. C. and Philadelphia, and places between.

It is a matter of regret to all who are interested in Genealogy to know that The Boston Transcript after 111 years is to go out of existence. Also the New England Historical and Genealogical Register, published since 1847, announces in the April issue that it needs 1000 new members in order to balance its budget.

Mrs. Frank A. DeBoos reports the death on April 8, of Mrs. N. T. Gill of Madison, Wisconsin one of the founders of the Wisconsin Genealogical Society. Mrs. Gill conducted a genealogical column in the Wisconsin State Journal and Mrs. DeBoos has contributed most of this material to our files.

Mrs. John E. Clapp has a copy of the "HISTORY OF BRADFORD COUNTY, PENNSYLVANIA" With Biographical Selections, by H. C. Bradsby, 1891. This is not in Burton and Mrs. Clapp will be glad to share it with anyone who may be interested.

Wayne University has now in its library a micro-film of the Wayne County Census of 1840 - 1850 - 1860. Each census is grouped in townships names appearing in the order in which they were taken. There is no index. The film was made in the Bureau of Census, Washington, D. C. It may be read in the viewing machine by anyone who wishes to consult it. Inquire at Room 238, Wayne University, Warren and Cass.

In the "Pennsylvania German" Vol. 11 p. 409 there is a list of 1420 names of heads of families who subscribed to the Baer Bible, published in 1819, at Lancaster Penn. It includes 91 from Pennsylvania, 310 from Ohio, 105 from Maryland, 24 from Virginia, 6 from New York, 2 from New Jersey and 2 from North Carolina. The names are arranged by counties, and it is as good as a census for 1819. On p. 303 will be found an interesting account of this Baer Bible among others. This helpful information comes from Mrs. DeBoos.

SAMUEL TOMPKINS AND MARTHA ALPHENA (TODD) SCHUREMAN AND THEIR DESCENDANTS

By Frances Ida Schureman Judd of Detroit

- VI. Bridgett Marbury (No. 1) bapt. at Alford May 8, 1593 interred there Oct. 15, 1598.
- VII. Francis Marbury bapt. at Alford, Oct. 20, 1594.
- VIII. Emme Marbury bapt. at Alford Dec. 21, 1595.
- IX. Erasmus Marbury, bapt. at Alford Feb. 15, 1596/7, matriculated at Brasenose College, Oxford, Apr. 12, 1616 aged nineteen years.
- X. Anthony Marbury (No. 1) bapt. Sept. 21, 1598, buried at Alford, Apr. 9, 1601.
- XI. Bridget Marbury (No. 2) bapt. Nov. 25, 1599.
- XII. Jeremith (or Jerimoth) Marbury, (the latter spelling written in his own hand at Oxford) bapt. at Alford, Mar. 31, 1601, matriculated at Brasenose College, June 11, 1619 at the age of eighteen years.
- XIII. Daniel Marbury, bapt. at Alford Sept. 14, 1602.
- XIV. Elizabeth Marbury, bapt. at Alford, Jan. 20, 1604/5. The name of Francis (EZ) Marbury does not appear again on the church registers at Alford after the date of the baptism of Elizabeth.
- XV. Katharine Marbury, probably born in London, d. at Newport, R.I. in 1687, m. about 163, Richard Scott. Very likely both Richard and Katharine came in the "Griffin" with William and Anne Hutchinson, as Richard joined the Boston Church June 28, 1634 and Katharine also joined Sept. 2, 1634. Roger Williams, while being credited with organizing the first Baptist Church in America, according to Gov. Winthrop really united with it under the influence of Katharine (Marbury) Scott who was actually its leading organizer. After being a member for a few weeks Mr. Williams withdrew his membership believing it to be in error. Richard and Katharine removed to Providence, R.I. in 1637. In 1656 Katharine became a Quakeress. While Katharine was visiting imprisoned Quakers in Boston in 1658, the court ordered that she be "whipped ten stripes with a three fold corded knotted whip." This punishment was inflicted with great cruelty. In 1660 she visited England. She returned to Newport, R. I. where she died.
- XVI. Anthony Marbury (No. 2) b. in London about 1608, matriculated at Brasenose College Oxford, Oct. 20, 1626 at the age of eighteen.

Children of DZ1 William and EZ1 Anne (Marbury) Hutchinson:

- DZ2 1. Katharine 2 Hutchinson, her baptismal year conjectural, recorded by Gov. Thomas Hutchinson as the twelfth child of William and Anne 1 Hutchinson but believed by the writer to have been their first child a sister of Capt. Edward 2, and not as sometimes chronicled a daughter of Capt. Edward 2 and Catharine (Hamby) Hutchinson, since he would have been a great grandfather at the age of 36, neither the daughter of Edward and Sarah Hutchinson, as sometimes stated, as this Edward would have been a great grandfather at the age of 38. As no record of the marriage of William 1 and Anne (Marbury) Hutchinson has been found at St. Martin's where the Rev. Francis Marbury was stationed in London, it is probable that the records of both this marriage and Katharine's bapt. were destroyed with the other records of that church. The writer believes that William and Anne were married not "about 1612", but about 1611 and that Katharine was born sometime between that time and 1613, when her brother Edward was bapt. Certainly Katharine (Hutchinson) Walker's household was more intimately associated with William and Anne.

than with any other Hutchinson family in New England, even to Capt. James I Sands (the husband of Sarah Walker-Sands) attempt at Eastchester to build a house for Anne and her family. As previously stated, D22 Katharine Hutchinson married C21 John Walker, doubtless in England, and their wills were both recorded at Portsmouth R.I. Dec. 16, 1671, John's having been drawn Mar. 18, 1647. Their three daughters were also given earlier in this work. The descendants of their daughter C22 Sarah (Walker) Sands will be traced to the present time. She was an ancestress of Delila Schureman Judd (daughter of the writer) through four lines.

- II. Edward 2 Hutchinson, eldest son, bapt. May 28, 1613, sailed to Boston, Mass. on the "Griffin" in 1633 a year prior to the arrival of his parents, was at Ipswich 1633, admitted "single man" to the Boston Church, June 10, 1634, returned to England in 1636 and m. Catharine Hamby of Ipswich, reentered Boston 1637, was disarmed for signing the "Remonstrance", settled in R. I. 1638, signed the Portsmouth Compact, returned to Boston about 1641, and resided near wharf in Oliver Street, in 1658 he became capt. of artillery, m. (2) Abigail, was disfranchised for lack of deference toward Gov. Winthrop, d. in 1675 as a result of a wound received at the Quaboag fight in King Philip's War. His great grandson, Thomas Hutchinson became Gov. and his historian of Massachusetts. Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt mother of Pres. Franklin Delano Roosevelt is another descendant.
- III. Susanna 2 Hutchinson bapt. Sept. 4, 1614, buried Sept. 8, 1630
- IV. Richard 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Dec. 8, 1615, admitted to Boston Church 1634, freeman 1634/35, signed the "Remonstrance".
- V. Faith 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Aug. 4, 1617, d. 1652, admitted to the Boston Church 1634, m. about 1637 Capt. Thomas Savage, was one who asked for more consideration for his mother-in-law during her church trial, for which he was admonished, was signatory to the "Remonstrance", was Commander-in-Chief of the Army of Massachusetts at the beginning of King Philip's War, member of Council 1680, m. (2) a daughter of the Rev. Zachariah Symmes one of Anne's most persistent opponents, Capt. Thomas Savage d. Feb. 14, 1682, he was the father of seven children from one of whom descended James Savage b. Boston, July 13, 1784, d. there Mar. 8, 1873, the American antiquary. He edited Winthrop's "History of New England" (1825-26), Paley's works (1828), and published a "Genealogical Dictionary of the First Settlers of New England" (4 vols. 1864.)
- VI. Bridgetta 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Jan. 15, 1618-19, joined First Church, Boston, 1634, m. (1) Willis Bridgewater, m. (2) John Sanford, who signed the "Remonstrance."
- VII. Francis 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Dec. 24, 1620, admitted to Boston Church 1634, asked for more compassionate treatment of his mother during her church trial and was admonished as a consequence. July 20, 1640, he was living with his parents at Portsmouth, R.I., when he requested the Boston Church to dismiss him by letter - not to a church, since there was none at Portsmouth, but to God. The "teacher" answered at length in an epistle dated Aug. 12, 1640, refusing to grant the request. In 1641, in company with his sister Maria's husband, the Rev. Mr. Collins he visited Boston, where they were taken before the Governor, Council, and Elders, where Francis was reprimanded for his letter to the church and fined L50, Mr. Collins L100, and both were imprisoned. Their fines were later reduced to L20 and L40. Upon their refusal to pay or to go to the church, they were compelled to do the latter, were "dismissed" and ordered to leave and not return under pain of death. These persecutions did not meet with unanimous approval but one official was fined for showing them some friendliness. Francis was at Pelham Neck in 1643 and he also shared the fate of his mother and her household.
- VIII. Elizabeth 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Feb. 17, 1621/2, buried Oct. 4, 1630/1.
- IX. William 2 Hutchinson, bapt. June 22, 1623.
- X. Samuel 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Dec. 17, 1624, m. . . ., they had a son, Richard.

- XI. Anna 2 Hutchinson, bapt. May 5, 1622.
- XII. Maria (Mary) 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Feb. 27, 1627-8, m. in Rhode Island a young man, the Rev. Collins from Gloucester, Eng. At St. Christopher's I., or Barbados in the West Indies. He had been persecuted as a non-conformist minister. He went to New Haven, Conn. in 1640, was a school master at Hartford, Conn. where his character was highly respected, was at Newport, R. I. for a time, an earnest follower of Anne Hutchinson. The Rev. Collins and Maria, his wife, accompanied Mrs. Hutchinson in her exile and shared her fate at Pelham Neck, Aug. 1643. They were killed by Indians.
- XIII. William 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Sept. 28, 1631.
- XIV. Susanna 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Nov. 15, 1633, m. Dec. 30, 1651, taken captive by the Indians Aug. 1643, was held by them for four years and had forgotten her language when the Dutch Governor of New York procured her release. She was unwilling to leave her captors. She was restored to her relatives in Rhode Island (probably to D22 Katharine Hutchinson-Walker.) Dec. 30, 1657 she m. John Cole of Kingston "in the Narragansett Country". She lived to a considerable age.
- XV. Zuryell 2 Hutchinson, bapt. Jan. 13, 1636 at First Church, Boston. She may have been the daughter of whom Bolton in his History of Westchester Co. says "One daughter in attempting to escape was dragged through a ledge by her hair, carried to a stump, where her head was chopped off."
- XVI. One child was born after Mrs. Hutchinson's trials, probably in Rhode Island. Gov. Winthrop wrote that the child was deformed, and some of the New England clergy publicly declared this affliction was a Divine judgment upon Mrs. Hutchinson. There seems to be no evidence that Anne's judges considered themselves in any way responsible. One of the preachers at her church trial suggested that he feared the long sessions would make them sick though the preachers were seated, while Anne (an expectant mother) stood until her physical weakness was called to the attention of the meeting. Considering the mental and physical hardships attendant upon her imprisonment, the journey to Rhode Island, making a home for her large family in a wild, new country, the marvel is that she and her child survived the ordeal. This child may have been the one who was beheaded by the Indians.

The Rev. Mr. Bolton states that Anne Hutchinson's household at Pelham's Neck consisted of sixteen persons. It appears to the writer that there will always be uncertainty as to which of her sixteen children shared her terrible fate.

A LONGSTREET-DYE BIBLE RECORD
Copied by Mrs. Oliver J. McVicar of Detroit

This Bible, published in 1834, is now in the possession of Mrs. McVicar (Esther Marie Hosner). The copy was made for the Society through the interest of Mr. Celon Newton Woodruff, who adds this note. "Mrs. Esther M. Hosner McVicar was born on the farm which had been an original grant from Martin Van Buren to her great grandfather, Ezekiel Dye. Four generations of this family resided on the section of land, which is located on the Walled Lake Pontiac Rd. Commerce Twp., Oakland Co., Michigan. The first homestead, a log cabin, was of course supplanted by the frame dwelling which still stands. Mrs. McVicar has the original grant to the homestead. Her great grandparents, Ezekiel Dye and Margaret C. Longstreet, migrated from New Jersey about 1834 directly to Walled Lake."

Editor's Note. "Dey" on p. 166 is probably not a mistake for "Dye". The name is a common one in New Jersey, written both ways, also "Day" and even "De". All of the names in the record, Longstreet, Bennet, Reid, Mount, Perrin, Lorton, Herbert, Vanschoick, Nichols, DeNise, Westervelt, are to be found in New Jersey records. Can some reader, perhaps, place them in the proper New Jersey families? Is Larrie C. Dye on p. 166 the Larue C. Dye of p. 167?

A GALUSHA - COLE FAMILY RECORD
Contributed by Isabel L. Cole of Shaftsbury, Vt.

"The Galusha family is one of the oldest in New England. Early in the seventeenth century JACOB GALUSHA, then about eight years old, was abducted from Wales by persons interested in an estate to which he was likely to become heir. He was sent to New England, settled near Plymouth, Massachusetts, and became the ancestor of a numerous family. He had two sons, Jacob and Daniel. Daniel had three sons, Jacob, Daniel and Jonas." Quoted from an article called "Jonas Galusha, Fifth Governor of Vermont" by Rev. Pliny H. White, which is recorded in Vermont Historical Proceedings Volume II of 1863 - 1870.

The following is taken from the "Boston Transcript" of October 24th, 1906.

1. JACOB GALUSHA lived in Dunstable, Massachusetts, and the early records of that place called him Gelutia the Dutchman. He was the above mentioned ancestor, the immigrant.
2. DANIEL GALUSHA, son of Jacob the Colonist and by tradition a Huguenot, served in King Philip's War, married at Chelmsford, Massachusetts on October 10th, 1676, Hannah Gould, born July 18, 1655 a daughter of Francis and Rose Gould. Daniel was living in 1706, and Hannah was alive in 1714.
3. DANIEL GALUSHA, son of Daniel and Hannah (Gould) Galusha, was born March 31st, 1686/7 in Chelmsford, Massachusetts, was a soldier in Queen Anne's War, 1702 and 1706, when his house was used for a garrison in Dunstable. He married July 5th, 1710, Sarah Warren, daughter of Daniel and Elizabeth (Whitney) Warren of Watertown, Massachusetts. Bond's Watertown speaks of his marriage in 1710. He was at Reddington and Springfield in 1676. (And born 1686? Editor.)

Daniel and Sarah were dismissed from the church at Watertown Farms, now Weston, to the church at Colchester, Connecticut. Their daughter, Elizabeth, was born here October 3rd, 1719, a son, Jacob, was born 1720/21. This Jacob became the father of Governor Jonas Galusha of Vermont. A third son of Daniel and Sarah, called Jonas, was born probably at Colchester about 1734/35. Daniel was living in 1734 when he sold land in Lyme, Connecticut.

4. JONAS GALUSHA. In the Pittsfield, Massachusetts Public Library is a small volume entitled "Early Vital Records of Sheffield, Massachusetts" copied by Joseph M. Kellogg of Lawrence, Kansas. On page 119 is the following record.

"Jonas Galusha and his wife Anne - children

1. Huldah, daughter born March 26th, 1758
2. a son, born October 22, 1759 and died (no date)
3. Rhoda, daughter born October 2, 1760
4. Anna, daughter born May 22, 1762
5. David, son born March 10, 1765
6. Lecter (Electa), daughter born March 28, 1767
7. Jonas, son born May 9, 1769"

Rhoda, the third child of Jonas and Anne, married David Galusha (more later) David, the fifth child, is buried in Shaftsbury, Vt. beside his wife Ruth. He died October 21, 1854 aged 89 y. 7 mo. 11 days.

Electa, the sixth child, married Abraham Harrington in Shaftsbury, Vt., in November 1785. She died in Shaftsbury, January 14th, 1854.

Jonas, the seventh child, gave three deeds while living in Rupert, Vt. between 1802 and 1815. On a deed of March 20, 1802 he signed "Jonas Galusha 3rd". On one of Sept. 8, 1813 he signed merely "Jonas Galusha", indicating that his father had died between 1802 and 1813.

Jonas Galusha, Sr. served in the Revolutionary War in an alarm of October 1780, being an uprising of Tories and Indians in Guilford, Vermont. Jonas was paid for 85 miles of travel and 17 days service.

Jonas and Anne were listed in the census of 1790 as living in Rupert, Vermont and as being "upwards of 45 years old".

5. RHODA GALUSHA, third child of Jonas and Anne, married her cousin, Capt. David Galusha b. 1748 son of Jacob (4), and brother of Gov. Jonas Galusha. Shaftsbury Vital Records Bk. 1, page 1 and item 1 reads:

David Galusha ) MARRIED November 21, 1779

Rhoda Galusha ) at Shaftsbury by Jeremiah Clark.

Tombstone inscriptions read:

"Capt. David Galusha died Aug. 26, 1804 at 56"

"Rhoda wife of David Galusha died June 1st, 1835 aged 71 years
4 months & 10 days."

Capt. David Galusha took part in the Battle of Bennington. He was "late of Berkshire County, Massachusetts".

6. CHARITY GALUSHA, daughter of David and Rhoda was born at Shaftsbury Nov. 13th, 1782 (Shaftsbury V.R. Bk. 1, p. 25), died Feb. 8th, 1836. She married Abram E. Cole, March 24th, 1805 (Shaftsbury V. R. Bk. 1, p. 23) (Note - No mistake in page numbers. The children of David were not recorded until after their marriage a very common occurrence in our records. ILC)

She was born June 9th, 1848, died June 25th, 1885.

Children.

1. Stephen Austin born and died June 13th, 1883
2. Isabel Lemira, born June 6th, 1885

*The spelling of my father's name as shown above is the way his father recorded it in the Bible and Father always wrote it that way. We used the same spelling on the tombstone. ILC.

The above record was compiled by Miss Cole, great-great-grand daughter of Rhoda Galusha (5) and by Miss Eunice E. Lyon of Bennington Vermont, a descendant of Electa Galusha, sister of Rhoda.

Editor's Note. The "Boston Transcript" account of Daniel (3) Galusha would seem to be confused in part with Daniel (2). Very obviously a man born in 1686 could not appear anywhere in 1676. According to "History of Chelmsford" by Rev. Wilson Waters, 1917, pp. 64 and 134, it was the house of Daniel (2) which was used as a garrison both in Chelmsford and later in Dunstable. This would seem to be correct, since Daniel (3) was not married until four years after the house in Dunstable was burned by the Indians and his sister. Rachel, killed July 3, 1706 (Dunstable V. R.).

I., and they came to York State about 1797/8.

755-J-5, DUPREE. Was this family associated in business with any Vanderbilt of N.J.? Susan (n)e DuPree (both spellings uncertain) was perhaps of Virginia (though she might be of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware or Maryland). She is supposed to have been the wife of Daniel Noe, prob. a son of ("Cornet"?), Peter (3) Noe, b. after 1695, the oldest son of Jean(2) Noe and his wife, Elizabeth Damaris Girard, who were m. at the French Church in New York, Dec. 2, 1694. Do any of the DuPre families (or of any similar spellings) have a record of the Susanne DuPree Noe mentioned above? It is conjectured that her mother-in-law, believed to have been the Sarah, wife of Peter Noe, which Sarah died in 1750, aged 47 years, as given by Monette, may have belonged to one of the FitzRandolph families whose farms lay near the Noes of Woodbridge and Piscataway Twps. Want all data re Susanne DuPree, and maiden name of Sarah--Noe.

756-J-5, KERRY NOE. Who has Kerry records, this name being connected with Noe of St. Joseph Co., Mich.? What was the name of the father of Elizabeth, b. about 1815, the 2nd wife of Benjamin Noe of Western Star, Ohio, who moved near, if not to Three Rivers, Mich.? Who is the genealogist of that family besides a Mrs. W.D. Smith, to whom we were referred, but who did not respond to an inquiry.

757-J-5, TAPPEN or TAPPIN. Has any searcher data on a Tappen family with some connection to Pres. McKinley, and perhaps to Tharp or Thorp? It seems likely that this New Jersey family went to Maryland, Eastern Shore, as Walworth became a Tappen given or middle name, and was a surname in Dorchester Co., Md. Can anyone versed in the history of the naming of Walworth Co., Wis., suggest a clue for tracing the very scattered descendants of the early Tappan, Tappen or Tappin family of Woodbridge, N. J., aside from the few given in books by P. P. Good and D. L. Tappan?

758-J-5, DRAKE, also DRAP(1)ER. What was the parentage of Asa Drake, b. 1814 at Pompey, N. Y.? Was he related to the Long Island family sometimes spelled Dreck? Was the Draper or Drapier family associated with Drake, as well as with the Chandler family who came to Mich. in the 1830s? Two bros., Gideon and Daniel Drap(1)er, m. respectively, half-sisters, Mary and Lydia Chandler..David Draper, once of Washtenaw Co., Mich. d. 1848, aet. 56(?) of Valpariso, Ind.

759-J-5, TRAPIER: Was this another spelling of Draper (Drapier)? Someone familiar with South Bend and Valpariso, Ind., may know traditions of families using Drapier.
